which has so far felt the force of this hevision of the law is the very one against whom it is to be egain used. In 1886 our relations with Spain were so strained that President Cleveland Issued a proclamation reciting that Spain had faited to carry out the first article of the commercial agreement signed at Madrid, February 12, 1884, which stipulated that the differential flag duties should be relieved at once from the United States products entering Cuba and Porto Rico. Being satisfied that higher and discriminating duties had been imposed, he therefore revoked the suspension of the discriminating customs duties imposed in the ports of the United States upon Cuban and Porto Rican products coming under the Spainish flag. The effect of this aution by the President was almost instantaneous, for in founteen days thereafter he issued a proclamation stating that by an agreement entered into that day (October 27, 1886) Spain had removed the source of our complaint and he consequently again restored her to treatment under the favored nation clause of our treaties. Porto Rico sent us in the same time goods valued at $3,145. 634, and received in return goods to the amount of $2,705,645. With the direct trade with Spain the case was re-tersed, for exports to that country were $13,104,076, as against imports were $13,104,076, as against imports amounting to $4,255,875. The tariff dif-ferences between Spain and the United States are being watched with keen in-terest by other sugar-producing countries, particularly Hawaii and Brazil, as the execution of Secretary Gresh-am's threat to discriminate against Cuban products will create a heavy demand for raw sugar, now brought al-most exclusively from Cuba.

Mr. Hastings, the charge d'Affaires of the Hawalian legation, is an inter-ested observer of the Spanish negotia-The Hawalian sugar planters given close attention to Cuba of late, many of them visiting the sland and studied the Cuban pro-cesses of making sugar. One of them wrote Mr. Hastings recently of the an-tiquated methods prevailing, and other Hawailan planters pointed out to him that the Cubans got but 25 tons of cane and two tons of actual sugar to the acre. The Hawalians thought that double this yield could be obtained and that Cuban plantations could not exist if cut off from the United States mar-

It is human nature to long for and expect to find the familiar landmarks, and at that old familiar landmarks, and at their last day when the weary editor stands at the golden gate and unswers that he published the most popular paper in his district of the country. St. Peter will stand by in awe and allow this truly great man to pass into the great beyond. Sometimes the love of name is overbalanced by the love of party, and the name of the produce o overbalanced by the love of party, and the newsboy is called upon to produce the best Republican or Democratic paper, as the case may be.

And then, when we get our papers, what do we read first? You may be sure each and every individual has his favorite page and column "spotted," and when his head becomes buried behind his newspaper he is lost to sight until he has read his fill. And what different fancies we have! Here is the busy, nervous-looking man. Why, he can scarcely wait until he has glanced at a certain page and seen the "upa the sea give up its treasures. He says he has a wife and several little brothers and thinks they will come to his rescue and release him from jail.

Judge Cain remanded Alton to the workhouse to be examined by the city physician.

CROSSED IN LOVE.

It Does Not Always Explain Why One Is Unmarried.

Probably nothing more wholly, more exclusively concerns the persons entering into it than their marriage. And most of their acquaintances seem to feel as much interval in them as them ont of their acquaintances seem to feel as much interval in them as them and how it was brought arout, with every minor detail, appears very much greater than the knowledge of the couple immediately involved.

The fact is that marriage, generally and particularly, is a subject of externe interest to young people everywhere, especially to young women, and in all ranks of society.
